ABOUT MYSELF

Bachelor student at the West University of Timișoara with a strong interest in web development and modern software technologies. I have practical experience building web applications using React and PHP through academic and personal projects, including a deployed portfolio website. I am passionate about learning how web systems work under the hood and continuously improving my skills by exploring new tools, frameworks, and development practices. I am motivated to grow as a junior web developer and contribute to real-world projects.
